The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

While Kawai teaches a control system comprising circuits and a manager circuit.

Neither Kawai nor the prior art of record, taken either alone or in combination teach a domain control system having all the claimed features of applicant's instant invention, specifically including: first logic adjusting a second signal according to the magnitude of a third signal, wherein said first logic is responsive to a first signal to provide the second signal representative of a first domain and the third signal representative of the first domain and a second domain; and a manager circuit comprising second logic coupled to the first logic, the second logic, responsive to the second and third signals, to operate on a first value representative of the first domain and on a second value representative of the second domain, and to provide a fourth signal to control an event defined by the first and second values.

It is for these reasons that applicant's invention defines over the prior art of record.
